...in yearbook class?

What does it mean?

It means being inclusive. It means learning, and highlighting interesting facts about your peers you probably wouldn't have known. It means keeping memories alive. It means incorporating different elements of visual art and design. It means being creative. It means working together to effectively create a book that totally captures 2011 as a whole.

...with our teachers?

Mr. Barry Cahill & Mr. David Dalton

Dear Members of the Class of 2011:

I'm sure your four years at Ipswich High School have gone by rapidly. Your growth and maturity over these four years has been remarkable. As a class, you have had lasting impact on our school. Your Yearbook will serve as a life-long reminder of the people and events you experienced over these four years.

Congratulations to each of you as you venture forth from Ipswich High School. The faculty and administration will miss your presence in our halls. Our teams, drama productions, music and community service have been enriched by your presence. Best of luck to each of you in your chosen path.

Mr. Cahill

...being a teacher?

What does it mean?

It means trying to find a parking spot in the morning. It means putting notes on the white board and hoping students can learn them. It means giving assignments for homework and listening to whining students while doing so. It means staying up 'til midnight correcting essays and reading the same book twice a year. It means attending Thursday faculty meetings. It means telling wandering students to get to class and writing a hundred bathroom passes a day. It means having a profession which requires great responsibility, constantly challenges you, and gives you joy. It means making a difference, and having an impact on hundreds of lives.

"Although at times we tried to repel their best efforts, our teachers eventually overcame all odds and managed to instill useful knowledge within us."

SPALDING

...you were fresh?

What does it mean?

It means rushing to class. It means suffering through those long classes once you get there. It means having trouble finding a seat at lunch. It means being pushed around and yelled at in the halls. It means believing anything can happen. It means taking the bus, walking, or carpooling to school. It means talking to older kids. It means actually caring about your grades. It means finding your own style. It means hoping for excitement around every corner. It means being the freshest and newest faces in school.

...you were a wise fool?

What does it mean?

It means feeling stuck in the middle. It means finally being older than some kids. It means you have to learn how to survive Project Adventure. It means finding out who you really might be. It means being completely lost in chemistry. It means getting the power to organize Semi. It means squeezing driving hours in whenever you can.

It means making a name for yourself and becoming known.

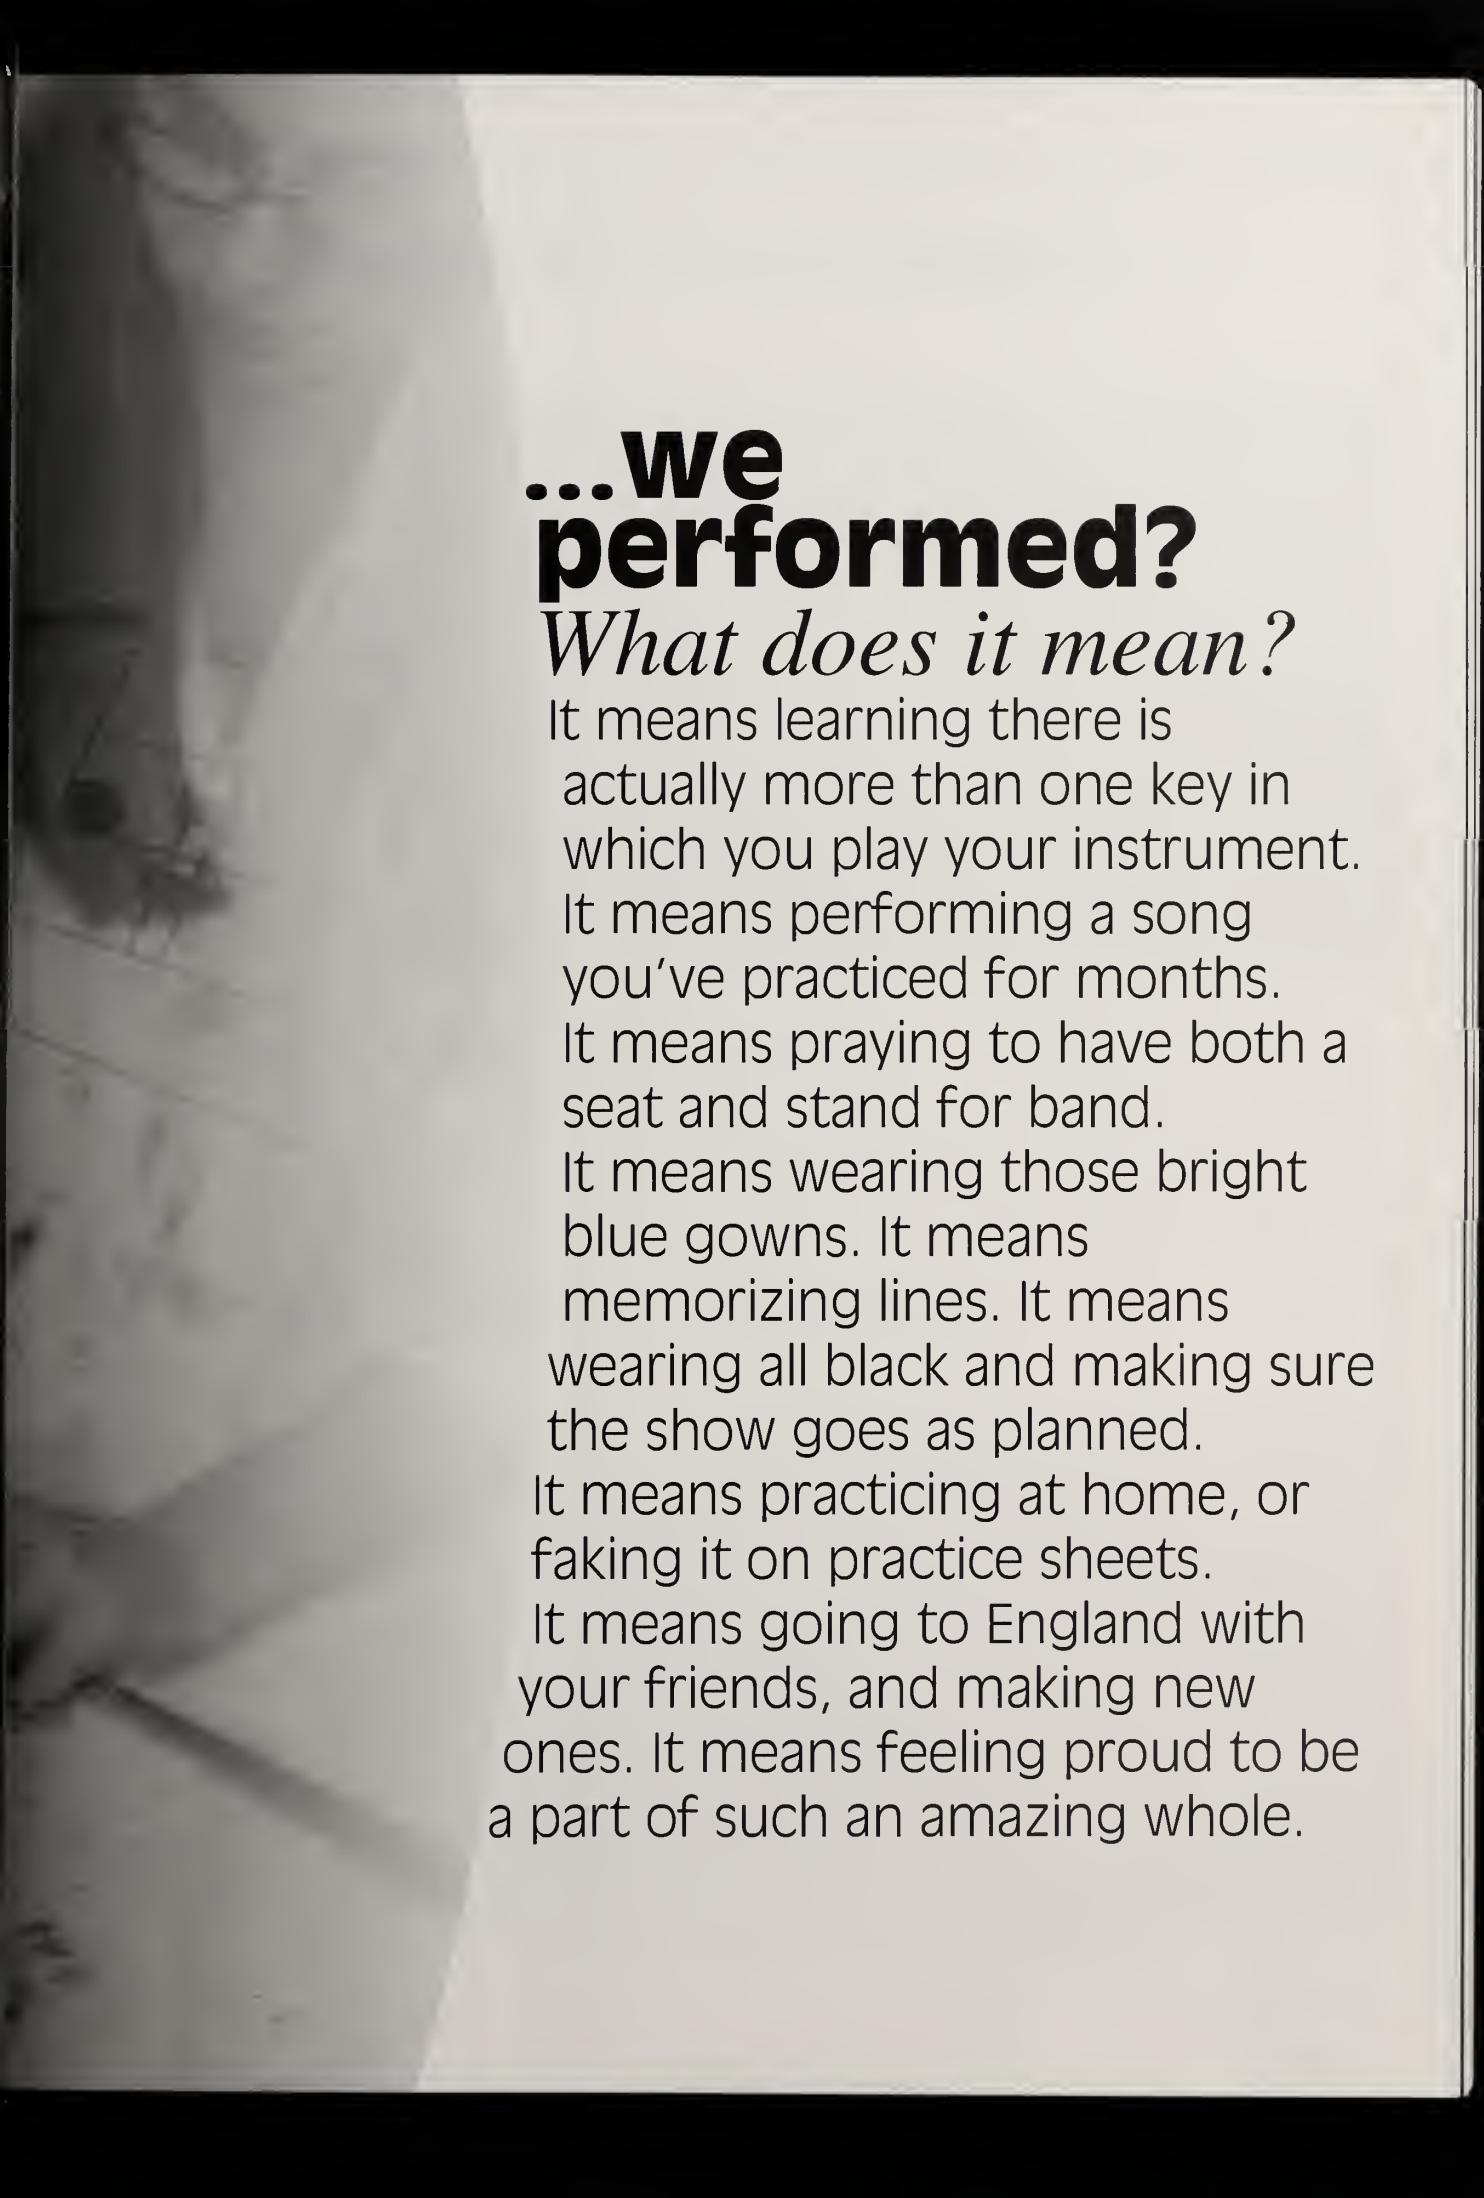
LOVE PINK



...we performed?

What does it mean?

It means learning there is actually more than one key in which you play your instrument. It means performing a song you've practiced for months. It means praying to have both a seat and stand for band. It means wearing those bright blue gowns. It means memorizing lines. It means wearing all black and making sure the show goes as planned. It means practicing at home, or faking it on practice sheets. It means going to England with your friends, and making new ones. It means feeling proud to be a part of such an amazing whole.

Kissing Booth

...you were almost there?

What does it mean?

It means that the end is finally near. It means just surviving day by day, class by class. It means going to Cotillion with the seniors. It means realizing that your GPA actually matters. It means coming into your own. It means becoming independent. It means thinking about what you want to do with your life. It means growing up. It means learning who your true friends are, and who you can trust. It means thinking about your future for the first time and having it actually matter, because you're almost there.

...we spent time together?

What does it mean?

It means going to the beach in the summer. It means taking tons of pictures and putting them on Facebook. It means hanging out with friends, and making new ones. It means discovering new hobbies. It means laughing in class to pass the time. It means competing during spirit week to earn respect. It means finding a date to prom. It means eating lunch with the same friends every day. It means staying up late on weekends. It means doing what you want, taking a break from reality, and experiencing moments you'll never forget.

...you ruled the school?

What does it mean?

It means not caring about the rules. It means eating breakfast in directed. It means sitting in the back of the cafeteria at lunch. It means going out every weekend. It means constantly making appointments in guidance. It means not doing homework. It means finally seeing your name on a tiger paw.It means spending as much time with your friends as possible. It means realizing you might actually, possibly miss this place, no matter how much you deny it.

...we competed?

What does it mean?

It means representing our school. It means wearing orange and black. It means having inside jokes with your teammates. It means working for the benefit of the team. It means earning bragging rights. It means proving yourself. It means being recognized for your talent. It means realizing your weaknesses and stengths. It's about discovering and accepting the weaknesses and strengths of others and working together to overcome any obstacle.

Success
by: Ralph Waldo Emerson

To laugh often and much;
To win the respect of intelligent people and the affection of children;
To earn the appreciation of honest critics and endure the betrayal of false friends;
To appreciate beauty,
To find the best in others,
To leave the world a bit better, whether by a healthy child,
A garden patch or a redeemed social condition;
To know even one life has breathed easier because you have lived.
This is to have succeeded.

Life has its ups and downs, And as the ups can be enjoyed, So, too, the downs, when seen as challenges.

With each challenge overcome, The stronger you become, To meet each new challenge.

And so you can turn life's ride, Into that you would like it to be, And thus, enjoy the ride!

It is not the critic who counts;

*not the man who points out how the strong man stumbles, or where the doer of deeds could have done them better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena, whose face is marred by dust and sweat and blood; who strives valiantly; who errs, who comes up short again and again, because there is no effort without error and shortcoming; but who does actually strive to do the deeds; who knows great enthusiasms, the great devotions; who spends himself in a worthy cause; who, at the best knows in the end the triumph of high achievement, and who at the worst, if he fails, at least fails while daring greatly, so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who neither know victory nor defeat.
